SUPERPOWERS

On Krypton he would have been an ordinary person, but Earth's yellow sun fueled an array of incredible abilities. With more raw power than just about any other hero on the planet, it's no wonder the people of Metropolis gave him the name Superman!

SOLAR BATTERIES

The red sun of Krypton kept the latent superpowers of Kryptonians in check. But Earth's yellow sun charges the cells of Superman's body and makes his amazing abilities possible, including his super-hearing and his near-photographic memory. Superman weakens when his body is deprived of solar radiation.

EARTH'S YELLOW SUN —THE SOURCE OF ALL SUPERMAN'S POWER

SUPER-SPEED His running speed and reaction time almost put Superman in the same class as The Flash. Superman has caught bullets in mid-air and read entire medical texts in seconds.

X-RAY VISION Superman's Kryptonian eyes can detect radiation beyond the visible light spectrum, and his X-ray vision can penetrate any substance except lead. His eyes also enable him to scan his surroundings at microscopic level or spot an object hundreds of miles away.

INVULNERABILITY Almost nothing on Earth can harm Superman. Bullets bounce off his skin; he can enter a volcano without an environmental suit. Superman has been slammed by a high-speed train and exposed himself to the vacuum of space without suffering any lasting damage. Even his fingernails are invulnerable.

HEAT VISION Superman's eyes can emit beams of microwave radiation capable of melting rock. Because he can fire his heat beams at anything he sees through his crystal-clear, telescopic vision, Superman rarely misses his target.

INTELLIGENCE Superman can remember anything he has ever read or seen. He has a gift for logic puzzles and games of strategy.

COMBAT MASTER Superman has trained with some of the world's greatest warriors. His knowledge helps him to use his skills with precision and avoid unnecessary damage.

FLIGHT Superman can fly, controlling direction and speed with unconscious mental commands. He combines flying abilities with super strength to accomplish astonishing feats. Superman's maximum flight speed is unknown, in space, he accelerates to incredible velocities.

SUPER-STRENGTH

Superman can bend steel and swing telephone poles like baseball bats. When trading blows with a super-powered enemy, the concussive force of his punches can shatter every window for a city block. Superman rarely cuts loose with the full power of his super-strength, for fear that he may accidentally hurt someone more than he intends.

HOW STRONG IS SUPERMAN?

FREEZE BREATH By inhaling and pressurizing a lungful of air, Superman can exhale at sub-zero temperatures and freeze foes in their tracks. He has also used his breath as a hurricane-force deterrent against crowds of enemies. With a single breath, Superman can survive for hours in space or underwater.
